An important part of everything that COCA does is education about the symptoms of ovarian cancer in order that early detection can save more lives. To that end we worked over 25 Health Fairs regionally, distributing symptom awareness cards and by having one-on-one conversation with women in attendance. We further promoted awareness of the symptoms electronically through website content and newsletters, as well through printed materials. We connected both personally and/or through the mail with 200 medical facilities in both rural and frontier areas of Colorado to make them aware of the services and resources COCA provides to women stricken with ovarian cancer. Further, we sponsored Ovarian Cancer Awareness month in Colorado and were successful in getting symptom awareness messages out through local television news, through social media and other printed materials.
