about COCA

COCA is a Colorado nonprofit serving women and families facing an ovarian cancer diagnosis. Ovarian cancer is the deadliest of gyn cancers and there remains no test to identify it. Building awareness and support is crucial to battling this 5th most common cancer death among women. Committed to being there for women, their families, and friends through this difficult journey, COCA has continued to build it's programming over the 15 years of its existence.

COCA is conducting a pilot to expand our Mission. We are considering adding other gynecologic cancers to our realm of assistance. In particular, uterine cancer.

Of COCA's successes, one of our most important is building peer and caregiver support groups in Colorado. Convening a platform for Survivors to connect with each other is one of the most empowering services we can provide.

COCA is further committed to holding up women through the shock of a new diagnosis by making professional counseling sessions available for free.

Importantly, COCA provides financial support for low income women in treatment and also assists all women who need it with access to treatment funding.

WE ARE SEEKING...

New Board Directors who are committed to and/or have experience working with the unique health needs of women. Those who are knowledgeable in helping guide organizations to grow outside their boundaries in areas such as:

- Help us as we investigate expanding our mission
- Involved with other non-profits
- Organizational skills
- Leadership skills
- Financial abilities
- Foundation and corporate experience
- Geographic diversity

COCA is committed to serving ALL women and encourages men & women of color, those from the LGBTQ and other underserved communities to apply.
